

We all need a horse to ride

No one succeeds alone. It would be best if you found a horse to ride. Or several for the matter.

People that you can learn from to grow and expand.

People that support you in your dreams and projects.

People that inspire you to become the best version of yourself.

People who are there for you, no matter how much you screwed up.

People who uplift you with their joy, enthusiasm, or energy.

People who can help you to get through tough times.

People who can connect you to other people at crucial moments.

People to whom you can be all of the above, to give back.

You can't make it on your own. And there's no shame in that. After all, we're in this together.